JL- I think this adds up to spook Note not an Embassy check but he asked that it be sent there, not to his home And he doesn't even have a printed check, yet this one is 1015, so he writes enough of them. He doesn't need a record for he returns my bill instead of writing to explain the purpose of the check. He has the habit of typing last names in caps, not normal, not diplomatic usage but common police and intelligence practise. It makes no difference but "T. Hardy" forgot and told me "Thomas." Not that the last name is so common. Nor that I'm not happy for any spooks to buy the printed book. I think it is just a little amusing and probably a real spook....Now if only all the spooks in town would buy, we'd have to worry about reprinting! Best. HW

EMBASSY OF AUSTRALIA
Washington, D. C. 20036